

Social Media Disclaimer

When interacting with us through Twitter, YouTube or Facebook you are bound by the terms and conditions of use of their respective sites. We encourage you to review the legal policies of Twitter, YouTube and Facebook for further information.

The Commission accepts no responsibility whether express or implied for the accuracy, currency and completeness of any information posted on the Commission's Twitter, YouTube or Facebook pages by anyone other than the Commission, or its relevance and suitability for any purpose.

Views expressed on these pages by anyone other than the Commission are not the views of the Commission and the Commission disclaims all liability for any such views, comments, advertising or other non-Commission content.

The Commission does not endorse or control any advertising that may be displayed by Twitter, Facebook or YouTube on our pages.

The Commission reserves the right to remove mentions, tweets, replies or comments at its sole discretion.

The Commission seeks to review the content of its Twitter, YouTube and Facebook pages on a regular basis. The Commission accepts no responsibility, whether express or implied, in the event that comments or material appear on any of these pages that do not comply with the Acceptable Use Policy.

The information on this page is current at the time of publication.